Summer Opportunities for Kids and Teenagers 1990

A student's personal identity constantly changes as part of the lifelong human process to become someone who matters. Art educators in grades K-16 have a singular opportunity to guide important phases of this development. How can educators create a supportive space for young people to work through the personal and cultural factors influencing their journey? Laura Hetrick draws on articles from the archives of Visual Arts Research to approach the question. Juxtaposing the scholarship in new ways, she illuminates methods that allow educators to help students explore identity through artmaking; to reinforce identity in positive ways; and to enhance marginalized identities. A final section offers suggestions on how educators can use each essay to engage with students who are imagining, and reimagining, their identities in the classroom and beyond. Contributors: D. Ambush, M. S. Bae, J. C. Castro, K. Cosier, C. Faucher, K. Freedman, F. Hernandez, L. Hetrick, K. Jenkins, E. Katter, M. Lalonde, L. Lampela, D. Pariser, A. Pérez Miles, M., and K. Schuler. Laura Hetrick is an assistant professor of art education at the University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign, and the coeditor of the journal Visual Arts

Research.

Day and Boarding Schools

Janine is trying to establish an identity among her peers. However, since she is too shy to express herself, she finds more comfort with the animals and birds in the forest near her home instead. Her love for nature is very sincere, and whenever she has a chance to escape from the wrath of humanity, she heads into a world of peace and tranquillity to be with the great outdoors. Wintertime arrives, and Janine and her sister enjoy a sleigh ride down the icy hill about a mile and a half away from home, until an unfortunate accident occurs where Janine hits her head. This is where magical moments begin. Unsure of what had happened to her, Janine is given a mission by a strange character to fulfil. Her quest involves saving the birds and animals from starvation due to uncontrollable snowstorms. To complete this operation, she, along with the assistance of Corvus the crow, has to find the Snow Queen, who can help save the animals in the forest. But a powerful phantom, Faeran becomes her enemy and develops cold-blooded schemes to prevent Janine from fulfilling her mission. It is up to her and Corvus to find a way to rescue the birds and animals without facing the unthinkable destruction initiated by Faeran. Many trials and tribulations occur during her trek through the cold woods, but will her bondage with nature help Janine succeed her mission or will she fail to save the birds and animals?
