An "insightful" (Publishers Weekly) history of the development of American capitalism and the men who made it great. Most Americans are familiar with the political history of the United States, but there is another history woven all through it, a largely forgotten history—the story of the money men. Acclaimed historian H. W. Brands brings them back to life: J. P. Morgan, who stabilized a foundering U.S. Treasury in 1907; Alexander Hamilton, who founded the first national bank, and Nicholas Biddle, under whose directorship it failed; Jay Cooke, who helped to finance the Union war effort through his then-innovative strategy of selling bonds to ordinary Americans; and Jay Gould, who tried to corner the market on gold in 1869 and as a result brought about Black Friday and fled for his life.

Deputy Knowles Knows is the uplifting story of true community investment. We all know that law enforcement officers risk their lives day in and day out, serving and protecting. But there are many other roles these men and women fill. They take time out of their busy schedules to invest in the community in various ways. One of these methods is to visit schools, read to children, and answer any questions they may have about who policemen and women are, and what exactly they do. This story showcases one of these visits, and highlights real questions and answers shared between students and Deputy Knowles. She not only shares valuable information, but also makes the children laugh and feel comfortable. This tale is a valuable reminder that law enforcement officers not only keep us safe, but that they also genuinely care about us.
